Poche Fellow in Melanoma and Surgical Oncology

Applications are invited from qualified General or Plastic Surgeons for the Poche Fellowship in Melanoma and Surgical Oncology. This program is based at the Melanoma Institute Australia’s North Sydney campus, as well as the Mater Hospital Crows Nest, Hunter’s Hill Hospital and Royal Prince Alfred Hospital Camperdown. This position is formatted at a post Fellowship level (FRACS or equivalent) and is suitable for surgeons seeking to develop a vocational interest in the field. Each year we offer two clinical and research based Fellowships, which are for twelve months commencing in February. The Fellowships involve a substantial clinical workload in dedicated outpatient clinics, operating sessions and weekly multidisciplinary meetings. The Melanoma Institute Australia is one of the world’s largest melanoma services, and access to its internationally respected Melanoma Research Database provides the opportunity to undertake significant research during this Fellowship.

Applications are accepted from Australian and non-Australian candidates. Fellowships are available from February 2018, and applications for this Fellowship close on 30 September 2016.

Interested candidates should submit their curriculum vitae, proof of specialist qualification, current medical registration/licensing, medical indemnity, and the contact details of three referees to: A/Prof Jonathan Stretch, Deputy Director, Melanoma Institute Australia, 40 Rocklands Road, North Sydney, NSW, 2060, Australia. Email: kaye.oakley@melanoma.org.au

For further information about Melanoma Institute Australia, see www.melanoma.org.au